

ONE OF THE SUBTLE SIGNS THAT IT'S TIME FOR NEUROLOGIC REHABILITATION

Sometimes it's easy to recognize the behavioral problems caused by a neurologic injury. Other signs may be less obvious, from an inability to initiate even the most basic activities to inappropriate sexual advances. In all cases, it's difficult to find a treatment facility to provide the specialized care needed.

The Florida Institute for Neurologic Rehabilitation provides a safe, structured therapeutic environment in which to teach self-control and alternative, more successful behaviors. Our Neurobehavioral Rehabilitation program is designed to prepare people with neurologic impairments for community integration, where newly learned behaviors and self-control techniques can be generalized to community and vocational environments.

Founded in an effort to provide high quality, clinically relevant and cost-effective brain injury rehabilitation and supported living services, the Florida Institute for Neurologic Rehabilitation is staffed by interdisciplinary teams of professionals trained in various therapeutic disciplines.
